

Course selection and admission process for exchange students within Tracks

This document describes the course selection and admission process for exchange students interested in applying for courses within Tracks. More information can be found here: <https://student.portal.chalmers.se/en/chalmersstudies/tracks/Pages/Tracks.aspx>

Tracks is one of the biggest investments in education in the 190-year history of Chalmers. The idea is to create individual, personal and flexible study opportunities by introducing Tracks courses to Chalmers students. These courses are optional and address specific challenges centered on projects within a limited number of major "Themes". The courses lie "between" the regular programmes, and thus the student will meet and work together with students from different educational backgrounds and prepare to solve the complex problems of the future. Students will be able to join Tracks courses from year 2-5.

How to find the current Tracks courses

Course specific prerequisites for each course (basic level: TRA100, TRA110, TRA120 and advanced level: TRA105, TRA115, TRA125) are described in the syllabus that is found in the Study portal: <https://www.student.chalmers.se/>. In the left menu at the Study portal you find Portal services where you can search for courses using the course code (e.g. TRA100).

The specific project-courses under each theme, the levels of the courses, when they start, and application deadlines are found in a table on this page:

Click on the title of the course to open an information text about the course content. If you have further questions on a specific course, please click on the name of the examiner to send an email with your questions.

How to apply for a Tracks course

There is no central application procedure for the Tracks courses, instead it is the examiner who is responsible for admission and registration. Please contact the examiner of the course you are interested in for more information about the application, start and end times of the course (these do not always follow the normal study periods) and other questions that are course specific.

Contact information can be found in the table of courses at the Student portal:
